

Constitution passed overwhelmingly

The revised Constitution has been approved by a huge majority. Eighty-two percent of the 2,776 votes cast in yesterday's referendum were in favour of adopting the revisions.

This far exceeded the two-thirds majority required. 2,294 votes were cast in favour of adopting the revised Constitution, 260 were opposed, and 222 ballots were invalid.

Twenty-eight per cent of the Students' Society voted. Only twenty per cent was required for the referendum to be valid.

The revision of the Constitution was put to referendum after being approved by more than the required 150 affirmative votes in an open meeting Monday.

The new Constitution changes many aspects of the government of the Students' Society. A major revision is the formation of the Students' Council which will be the governing authority of the Students' Society, analogous to the present Students' Executive Council (SEC).

The executive authority of the Students' Council will be vested in its five-member Executive Committee, which will be responsible to the Students' Council through the President of the Students' Society.

The new constitution creates three new executive positions. There will now be two Vice-Presidents, one in charge of External Affairs and the other of Internal Affairs. The third new officer is the Comptroller who will supervise all disbursements.

The revised constitution provides for several new representatives on the Students' Council. These include three representatives from the Faculty of Arts and Science, at least one of whom is pursuing a B.A. degree and one a B.Sc. Previously there were only representatives with no restrictions as to whether they were in Arts or Science.

These are only a few of the new provisions of the revised constitution. Commenting on the result of the referendum, Saeed Mirza, President of the Students' Society, said "I am very pleased about the adoption of this new Constitution because it suits our needs at the present time and will continue to do so for years to come."

Discussing the turnout in the election, Mirza stated, "It's really pleasing to see that, after all, student apathy is breaking down... There were some students who did not vote because they had not studied the Constitution and others because they did not know what was happening. These students had a lot of time to study the Constitution and the detailed report, so if they had any doubts they could have clarified the issues."

Bill Fraiberg, chairman of the committee which drew up the Constitution, was gratified to see that the work of the committee had been well received by so many students. He felt that the Constitution would serve the Students' Society well.

"I especially wish to thank the members of the committee; Lew Soroka, Jean-Pierre Mongeau, Joel Bell, and Robert Rabinovitch, as well as the faculty and club presidents whose suggestions have been invaluable," he said.

ANOTHER OPENING, another show as Cache on Delivery, the Red and White Revue, gets under way tonight in Moyse Hall, and rehearsal scenes like this one, in which Billy Walker hoists Linda Buzzell, are over for another year. Last night, the cast put on the traditional benefit performance for the Montreal School for the blind and deaf, and the performance was well received by the audience. The Revue will run until February 13.

New Democrats elected; form minority government

The New Democratic Party will form the first democratic socialist Model Parliament government in the history of the movement on campus.

Its 23 seats will allow it to form a minority government; the Liberals, who will be the official Opposition, won 21; the Progressive Conservatives, 9; Congress Toward Canadian Maturity 4, and the Young Communist League, 3. The NDP total represented a gain of 11 seats, while the Liberals lost 8, the Conservatives lost 6, and the YCL lost 1. CTCM was not represented in last year's election.

The vote breakdown is as follows: CTCM — 166, 5.9%; Liberal — 887, 31.7%; NDP — 966, 34.5%; P.C. — 395, 14.2%; YCL — 137, 4.9%; 247 ballots, or 8.8% of the total were invalidated.

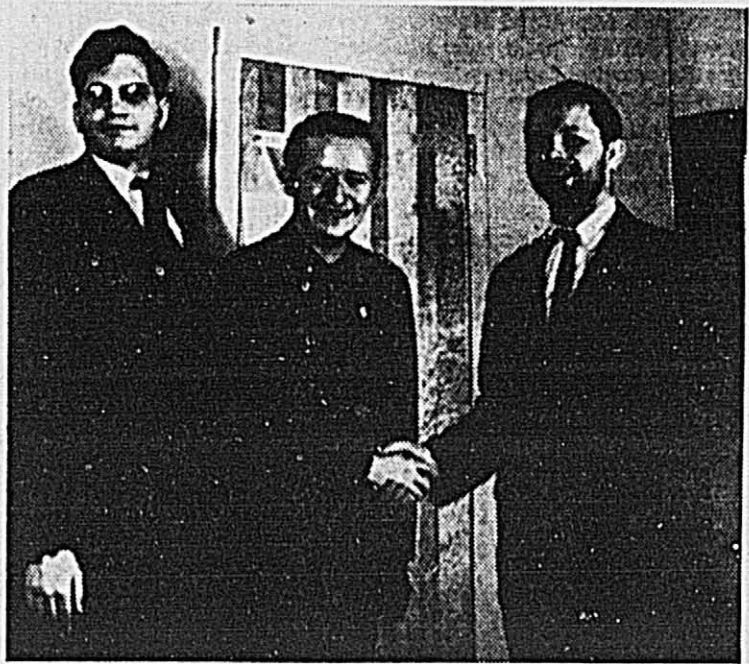

Bill Lenihan, the Prime Minister-elect, said that he was very pleased that the students had endorsed the policies of the NDP. "This is clearly a demand for progressivism, and our Party will legislate accordingly during the sitting of Model Parliament", he stated. He added that this election forecasts "tremendous gains" for the NDP throughout Canada.

Opposition Leader Cliff Post said that the election was the result of student reaction to the federal government and claimed that the national Liberal Party must present better leadership if it is to be supported.

Fred Harris, leader of the Progressive Conservatives, maintained that the results "in fact confirm our policy insofar as it was a rejection of present national leadership."

An overjoyed Bill Lenihan (centre), NDP president, shakes hands with Model Parliament chairman George Kubanek just after he learned that his party had won yesterday's election. Liberal leader Cliff Post looks on glumly at left.

Charles Shannon, national leader of CTCM, said that CTCM's showing was due primarily to the fact that it was placed first on forms. "I'm glad to see that the forces of rigid conservatism were so roundly slaughtered" he added.

STAFF FOR THIS ISSUE
Much ado about much and little space in which to put it, but the ever-faithful staffers made life a little bit easier: JUDY of the referendum and ELLY Q. of Model Parliament, as well as Eva, Marc (who can write heads after all) and AAC (who almost wrote a head). John on sports, Ian and radical, Georges on photo, and reactionary de RIC who apologizes to everyone whose story got crowded out or for whom I didn't have anything to do.

A step forward

Now we can get down to business.

After a year of preparations, months of discussion, special issues of the Daily and an Open Meeting, we finally have a Constitution that gives the Students' Society the machinery to run itself properly.

There were worries that this campus would not be able to provide 2,000 informed voters. There were questions about the advisability of requiring a 20% turnout for a referendum. Yesterday, the optimism of the framers of the Constitution was justified.

The effort was certainly well spent. Practically speaking, the referendum provided an Executive Committee to run the day-to-day affairs of the Students' Society, relieving the President of an overwhelming burden.

It provided for an External Vice-President, one of whose major tasks will be to coordinate the avenues of influence with the Quebec Government which have developed in the past few years. Every club and society on campus now has one person whose primary job is to look after their needs and problems. The new Union can now be effectively run, and the absurdities of the eligibility for office rules have been abolished.

The effects of yesterday's vote will be long felt; we now have the machinery to continue in the independent and responsible paths that have evolved since the Students' Society was founded.

Break a leg

from the days when spirited undergraduates heaved flour on the heads of Victorian ladies and gentlemen from the balconies of the late Her Majesty's Theatre.

It is one of the few English theatrical events in Montreal, and this alone is sufficient to attract the outside public. Its quality in the past has justified this interest.

It deserves support from the campus in particular, for although the applause is only for the performers, the entire University benefits from the contact with the public of Montreal.

This year's edition opens tonight at Moyse Hall. The previously announced run has been extended, indicating that interest and response are as great as ever.

To the cast and crew of COD: Break a leg!

Accolades

This campus is often too quick on the draw when it comes to fraternities; we take pleasure, therefore, in reporting an outstanding achievement by one group of campus Greeks.

Zeta Beta Tau, the largest active fraternity at McGill, has set an example of community service that will be hard to beat. With a lot of effort and imagination, ZBT managed to promote a major show in Montreal, and as a result turn in over $6,000 to the Quebec Heart Foundation.

Congratulations on a worthwhile project, well carried out.

A CONTROVERSIAL PRESIDENT:

M. Bazin of CUS

Today Jean Bazin, President of the Canadian Union of Students, is at McGill.

Few student leaders in recent history have aroused the controversy that Mr. Bazin has since taking office last Fall. From the very beginning it was clear that his tenure would be a very difficult one. Originally nominated by his own Université Laval, when it seemed that C.U.S. had solved its problems by a new structure according equal rights to the French Canadian Universities, he saw himself deserted not only by Laval but by all the French universities in Quebec. He took over the chief office of an association which had become almost entirely English speaking.

In November, controversy arose again when George Hees was appointed Honorary President of the CUS. Certain people felt Mr. Bazin, who has been in the past associated with the Progressive Conservative Party, had made the decision on that basis. That rumour was laid to rest by the discovery that the Honorary President is chosen by the CUS Board of Directors, and not the President.

At present, Mr. Bazin is in particular hot-water with the French-Canadian universities. It seems that the University of Alberta had requested some representative students of French-Canadian universities for its recent "French Canada Week". The President chose three students whom he considered to be representative, without consulting UGEQ, the AGEUM, or the AGEL. The uproar across the mountain has been almost audible, to an extent that one wonders if Mr. Bazin's life will be endangered by his trip to McGill.

He seems to think not, and plans to speak to McGill students on two occasions; to the students-at-large in the Ballroom at 1 pm, and to the External Affairs Training Program in W-20, Arts Building at 7:30 pm.

Carpetchagger Misinformed

Dear Madam,

The carpetchagger has once more turned his jaundiced eye towards campus affairs. In his comments regarding Model Parliament, he has shown himself to be a figure of the past by advocating restoration of the GNU Party (why not also the National Loyalists?) and also prove that he is ill — informed about the scope and purposes of this parliament.

He is one of the few who do not realize that Mock Parliaments serve no purpose whatsoever — if he wants satiric rhetoric, let him participate in the Red and White Revue or Fig Leaf.

Model Parliament has been reorganized and created as a major campus activity in order that students learn more about government and its policies, parliament and its operation, and campaigning with its speakers, literature and debates. That there is room for humour can be seen by anyone who has followed the campaign. It has, however, been the policy of virtually all participants to provide a serious framework for this parliament.

Some parties have attempted to be original in their approach, others have followed the party line more closely. This Model Parliament will not, however, be a copy of Parliament Hill but will shed new light on political issues. We have planned for provocative sessions and hope that the constituents will also attend.

George R. Kubanek,
Chairman
Model Parliament

Pew Comfortable, Redwings Not

Dear Madam,

This week I was assigned to serve as a Red Wing at Pierre Berton's lecture in the Leacock Building. The public was invited and far more than the hall's 650 capacity turned out. On the orders of the superintendent I allowed in 700, which had people sitting in the aisles and blocking all exits. The remaining 200 or so were told that the hall was filled. The students in the crowd left quietly but members of the public caused an appalling commotion.

They began manhandling the two Scarlet Keys at the door and one man actually hit me, after which he punched a Key and threatened him. Another woman yelled that I hated God and was keeping her out through selfishness; she followed this up by telling the other Red Wing to "Shut Up". I was eventually forced to push my way out to look for help.

Needless to say, I was disgusted as well as frightened and it is miraculous that no one was hurt. The conclusion is simply this — firstly, such lectures should not be made public unless there are facilities to accommodate them. Secondly, I found the fact that none of the trouble came from students highly significant. Having served at many student functions including football games, I can honestly say that I have never before been physically threatened.

I hope that this incident may serve as a deterrent to any future projects of this type, unless the invited public be informed that the Scarlet Keys and Red Wings represent University authority and deserve the respect of those using University facilities.

The YCL's David Dent was "overjoyed" at the swing to the left in spite of the increased vote and said that the NDP should be able to form a government. "The fruits of YCL labour have been borne out in the results", he stated, claiming that YCL work was partly responsible for the swing left.

Model Parliament holds its first session on Tuesday at 7 pm in the Ballroom; the sessions are open to all students.

Lefort makes late drive

While most attention in the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League this season is being focused on the efforts of Toronto Varsity Blues' Steve Monteith to rewrite the League record book, centre Gilles Lefort of Montreal Carabins is busy doing a repeat of his scoring heroics of one year ago.

Lefort used a late surge, which included six points in his final game, to edge Hank Monteith of Toronto for the scoring title last season. This season, the Carabins' centre has counted nine goals and 13 assists in his last five games to pose a serious threat to Steve Monteith's scoring lead. He now has 12 goals and 22 assists for 34 points, only four less than Monteith, and has six games remaining to the Toronto player's five.

Lefort and his linemates, Jean Cusson and Pierre Lacoste, are the major reason Carabins are only one game behind Toronto in the standings with a game in hand.

Steve Monteith, meanwhile, has tied two of five records within his reach. His 62 career goals match the all-time mark of former Laval player Pierre Raymond and his League-leading 38 points equal the one-season record set by Michel Lagacé for Laval in 1959-60. Monteith's 125 career points and 18 goals for the season are only one point and three goals away from these respective records.

The fifth record Monteith has a chance to break, 24 assists by Montreal's Bernie Quesnel in 1953-54, is now being more seriously threatened by Lefort. The Carabin ace has 22 assists to Monteith's 20.

Toronto currently leads the nine-team League with a 10-1 record. Montreal is second (9-1), Western third (7-2) and McMaster fourth (4-3).

Georgians invade today

Sir George Williams University will invade the Lower Campus this afternoon at 3 pm in the first of a two game series against McGill's nearly undefeated NEOS of Intermural fame.

The second in the series of games will be played on February 17 to coincide with McGill's Winter Carnival.

Since SGWU Carnival is now under way there should be a large contingent of their party makers in attendance, and McGill should not be out rallied by anyone from SGWU.

Referees for the game will be Dave Bowen from McGill and Bob Berry from SGWU. The Sr. official for the game will be none other than Red Storey.

Late flash

QUEBEC, February 4 — The Redmen defeated the Laval Carabins 4-3 in an OQAA hockey game here last night. They were paced by Fred McRobie, who scored two goals. Dave Flam and rookie Ian Taylor netted the other tallies.

OQAA Jottings

McMaster's hockey and basketball teams continue to be plagued by injuries. Latest hockey casualties are Jake Dineen, who injured a knee last weekend in his first game after recuperating from a former ailment, and Bill (Bear) Kennedy, who will miss the rest of the season with a back injury. The basketball Marauders lost Bill Wall with a possible ankle fracture. Still on the sidelines are Marlins Harvey Wells and Bobby Apps, both doubtful returnees this season.

Angelo Mazzuchin, wearing a face mask to protect his broken nose, and highly-rated 6-foot-5 forward Joe Bardswich are back in Windsor Lancers' lineup. Bob Billand, however, is sidelined and all-star Joe Green is ailing.

Queen's Golden Gaels' cage veterans Larry Ferguson, Doug Evans and Bruce Engel have rejoined the team. This trio originally decided not to play this season.

Two OQAA track stars, Dave Ellis of Queen's and Bob Finlay of Waterloo, set meet records at the College Indoor Games at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens last Friday. Ellis won the 1,000 yards in 2:15.2 and Finlay the two miles in 9:28.7.

Toronto hockey star Steve Monteith, shooting for five SIHL records, has only failed to record at least one scoring point in five of his 46 league games in four seasons. His record is 62 goals and 63 assists for 125 points in 46 games.

Guard John Callahan of Varsity Blues has been named Ottawa's amateur athlete of 1964. Callahan was captain of Carleton University's basketball team last season.
